Noted Airmen Slightly Injured While Landing

Fechet and Eaker Narrowly Escape Death Late Friday

Landing Gear Is Said to Be Responsible For Accident

LANDING FOR FUEL Propeller and Wheels of Plane Are Damaged in Crash

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—Advices from the frontier town of Tapachula, Saturday stated that Major General James E. Fechet, Chief of the American Army Air Corps and Captain Ira C. Eaker, widely known flier, narrowly escaped death on landing there Friday to refuel, en route to Panama. Dispatches Saturday morning said the planes retractable landing gear for some reason was not in readiness when the plane came down. The wheels folded up, the propeller was broken and the ship was damaged, but the airmen were said to have escaped with bruises. They left Brownsville, Texas Friday.

Arkansas Protests Rate Investigation

Railroad Commission in Opposition to Change of Coal Charges

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas railroad commission Friday mailed to the Interstate Commerce Commission a protest against a petition by railroads in the Western Trunk line territory for a general investigation of coal rates to points in that territory. Commissioner Reece A. Caudle, and A. D. Beals, rate statistician for the commission, who recently succeeded in obtaining downward revision of rates in three cases affecting coal shipped from Arkansas mines to points in Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota, prepared the protest against any disturbance of these rates. The petition filed by carriers seeks to have the new rates from Arkansas mines suspended until a general investigation into all coal rates in the Western and Southwestern states can be completed. The petition asks that the Arkansas cases be consolidated with scores of other cases decided recently or now pending and that the whole coal rate structure be gone into to again. The Arkansas commission contends that such an investigation is impracticable and unnecessary, since a uniform rate, or a rate fixed on a flat mileage basis cannot be fixed in all the territory involved. The protest cited statements by rate experts and attorneys for the carriers to bear out this contention. The commission's protest was accompanied by a tabulation showing that rates on lump coal from the Greenwood and Russellville fields to points in Texas were decreased recently from five cents to $1.26 per ton. From the same fields to points in Nebraska and Kansas, reductions ranged from 13 cents to $1.50 per ton, and to points in Missouri, South Dakota and Minnesota, from 17 cents to $1.20 per ton.

Feeble Veterans in Another Parade

Confederates in Review in Shadow of Portico Where Davis Spoke

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—Up historic Dexter avenue, over the same route Jefferson Davis passed to his inauguration as president of the Confederacy 70 years ago, Confederate veterans paraded Friday in the final gesture of their annual reunion. As the column of feeble veterans reached the head of the street, almost in the shadow of the portico where Davis took the oath of office, flags were dipped. Except for a lone hardy warrior who marched with head high and sabre flashing in the warm summer sun, the veterans, more than 1500 in number, rode in automobiles or on horses.

Sale of Tax Land Scheduled Monday

Final Publication of Delinquent List in Today's Star

The annual sale of delinquent tax lands for Hempstead county will be held Monday at the courthouse in Washington. Final publication of the delinquent tax list appears in today's issue of The Star. There are more than 2,400 tracts in this year's list, compared to approximately 1,600 last year. However, the increase in tax delinquency was less in Hempstead than in many Arkansas counties. Governor Farnell's proclamation extending tax-paying time for a second emergency period, expired today, and beginning Monday delinquent land bears 10 per cent penalty on the amount of the tax. The 60-cent publication fee was charged on all lands listed as delinquent, everywhere in the state, since publication was necessary two weeks before the date of the annual land sale, regardless of the extension on the 10 per cent penalty. The office of Sheriff and Collector John L. Wilson, in the courthouse at Washington, has been open to the public as usual ever since the tax list was turned over to the printers two weeks ago. The office had been closed the week ending May 23 in order to allow courthouse folk to complete the list.

Railroad Carries Many Free Loads

Road Operated By Receiver Distributes Supplies to Red Cross

HARRISON, Ark.—(AP)—Although operated by a receiver, the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad carried free of charge 21 carloads of food and supplies consigned to the Red Cross for distribution to drought sufferers in the territories served by the road. In addition to the free freight, 171 cars of feedstuffs were hauled at two-thirds of the regular rate, authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission because of last year's drought. Officials of the road said regular commercial rates on the 21 cars would have exceeded $4,000 while the road's revenue would have been increased by $3,545 if regular rates could have been charged on the 171 cars. The figures were revealed in a compilation of the road's operations during the latter part of 1930 and the early part of 1931. After financial troubles for many years, the M. & N. A. was placed in receivership in 1929. W. Stephenson is the receiver. The road runs from Helena, Ark., to Joplin, Mo.

Six-Year-Old Death in Canada Revived

GALVESTON.—(AP)—The details of a killing that occurred over six years ago on the Canadian-Vermont border were revived Thursday as representatives of the Canadian government opened their second attempt to extradite Fred H. Mertz, United States narcotics agent, for the alleged murder of a Canadian subject. Extradition was denied at a similar hearing before United States Commissioner Brantley Harris in March, 1930. Amedee Bilodeau, 39 resident of Shrebooke, Quebec, was killed at Canaan linehouse a resort located on the Canadian-American border, on May 29, 1925.

Remission of Fine To Be Attacked by Attorney General

Seeks to Determine If Acting Governor Exceeded Authority

TO START SUIT SOON

Wilson Returns Home After Granting Furloughs to Provi Violators

Legal action to determine whether Acting Governor Lawrence E. Wilson had authority to remit a fine imposed on the Meriwether Sand and Gravel Co. of Lewisville for contempt of LaFayette Chancery Court probably will be instituted next week, Attorney General Hal L. Norwood said Friday, according to the Arkansas Gazette of Saturday. The fine of $50 was imposed by Chancellor J. Y. Stevens of Magnolia for contempt of court in violating an injunction restraining the company from further polluting Bodew creek with waste matter from the company's gravel plant, after the injunction had been sustained by the state Supreme Court. Mr. Wilson issued a proclamation Thursday relieving the company of the fine. Chancellor Stevens said over the telephone from his home Friday night that he had heard no reports to the effect that the company was continuously violating the injunction and that he will not institute any action on his own motion. He said he presumed the parties who instituted the original suit, including the attorney general, and two LaFayette county property owners, will take steps to enforce payment of the fine and that the matter will be decided on its merits when it reaches his court. To Start Action at Once Mr. Norwood said that he will instruct T. T. Boulware, Stamps lawyer, who assisted in handling the original case, to institute action immediately to enforce collection of the fine and observance of the injunction. The state alleged that pollution from the gravel plant killed game fish and destroyed the value of Bodew creek as a fishing stream. Property owners alleged that the pollution made the water unfit for livestock and decreased values of all property adjoining the stream. Mr. Norwood has characterized Mr. Wilson's action in remitting the fine as an attempt by the Executive Department to take over the functions of the Judicial Department were allowed to go unchallenged, it would in effect nullify the court's only means of enforcing its orders. Cain Furlough Criticized Mr. Wilson returned to his home at Camden Friday after acting as chief executive four days, during which his exercise of the pardoning power brought upon him editorial criticism by many Arkansas newspapers. A storm of protest arose when he pardoned his brother, Fred Wilson of El Dorado, Monday, within an hour after he had been sentenced to four years in the penitentiary on a plea of guilty to four charges of grand larceny and embezzlement in connection with payroll padding while employed as a bookkeeper for the Hudson-Cooper Lumber Co. Tuesday he granted an indefinite furlough to Lewis Wallin, alias "Snake" Cain, who had served 21 days of a two-year sentence on a charge of burglary and grand larceny in connection with the looting of a store at El Dorado. Wallin was returned from Oklahoma several months ago at a reported expense of more than $1,000 to the state and Union county. The proclamation said the furlough was granted because Wallin was suffering from tuberculosis. (Continued on page seven)

Repulsed Lover Kills 4 Persons

Triple Tragedy Occurs as Man Rebuffed by Sweetheart's Family

ROUND LAKE, N. Y.—(AP)—Repulsed several times during the night by the family of 18-year-old Grace De Witt, to whom he had been attentive, Clyde Clemens, 45, broke into her home at dawn Friday and shot Grace and her uncle dead. He then sent another bullet through his jugular vein, dying instantly. The triple tragedy occurred in the De Witt farmhouse on a lonely road near here. It left 11 children fatherless. Clemens was father of five, and Gordon De Witt, 56, Grace's slain uncle had six. Mrs. Albert De Witt, mother of Grace, jumped from a second story window when Clemens flourished a pistol at her as she tried to protect her daughter. She suffered a fractured shoulder and was taken to a Canastota Springs hospital.

Forestry Program To Begin Thursday

Systematic Work Will Be Launched in State by Commission

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The state's first attempt to inaugurate a systematic forestry program will become an actuality next Thursday, June 11, when Act No. 234 of 1931 goes into effect. It provides a forestry commission of members, consisting of Dean Dan T. Gray of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, Earl Page, state commissioner of mines, manufacturers and agriculture, and three others to be named by Governor Parnell. Establishment of the commission, which, except for a few thousand dollars for salaries of a few employees will cost the state little during the next year, is being held in the Oklahoma county jail for questioning in connection with the shooting. Sam Rittenberry, Brown's brother-in-law, is being held in the Oklahoma county jail for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Says Rogers Caldwell Must Face Trial First in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Governor Henry H. Horton Saturday announced he will not permit Rogers Caldwell, financier, to be extradited to Kentucky until disposition of the cases against him in Tennessee is made. Requisition had been made by the governor of Kentucky for Caldwell. Horton required Caldwell to make $25,000 bond to insure his appearance "before me and abide by my final action on the demand for extradition which will be after the courts in this state have disposed of the cases against him." Caldwell is under indictment in Louisville on a charge of obtaining property by making a false statement in writing, in connection with negotiations for a merger of his investment house with the Bank of Kentucky Company of Louisville, now in receivership. Caldwell goes on trial here Monday.

1930 Death Rate Lower Than 1929

1927 Shows the Greatest Number of Deaths the Report Says

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A total of 18,958 deaths occurred in Arkansas during the calendar year 1930, or 530 less deaths than the 1929 total of 19,488, the report of the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health, showed. The death rate declined from 10.5 per 1,000 population in 1929 to 10.2 in 1930, the report showed. Deaths in 1930 in urban communities numbered 4,073, while 14,885 deaths were reported from rural communities. More deaths occurred in July of last year than in any other month. The total of 1853 for that month was five more than for January, the next highest month, and 505 more than for September, which showed less deaths than in any other month. Deaths were reported from cities as follows: Little Rock, 1,857; Fort Smith, 500; Hot Springs, 486; Pine Bluff, 316; El Dorado, 251; Blytheville, 206; Jonesboro, 177; Texarkana, 141, and North Little Rock, 139. The greatest number of deaths in any year since 1918 occurred in 1927, the report shows, when 20,008 persons died.

War on Racketeers Urged By Speaker

Says Democracy at Stake in Addressing Conference

BALTIMORE.—(AP)—Urging war on racketeering, Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, said Saturday that Democracy was at stake in America, in addressing the laymen's association of the Baltimore conference of the church. He said that unless the law is successfully enforced the people of the United States "will resort to violence" to crash the activities of privileged gangsters and extortioners. He reminded the audience of the effectiveness of the vigilantes of the West and the Texas Rangers in stamping out lawlessness in those sections by force.

Additional Tax On Cigarettes Will Go Into Effect June 11

Actual Collection Will Not Start Until Stamps Are Distributed

WILL MAKE 5c TAX

Act of Recent Legislature Changes Law and Adds Greater Tax

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Although laws raising the tax on cigarettes to five cents a package of 20 go into effect June 11, collection of the entire tax will not be started until a month later or until the new tax stamps have been distributed to several thousand dealers in the state. A new five-cent tax stamp, and a new two and a half cent tax stamp, have been lithographed and delivered to the state auditor. The five cent stamp is printed in green, and the two and a half cent stamp in brown ink. Accustomed during nearly 10 years to paying a four cent tax on a package of 20 cigarettes, for benefit of the school equalizing fund, smokers last March saw another half cent added. Now that the law increasing the tax another half cent for the University of Arkansas building fund is about to go into effect, a new stamp covering the entire five cent tax has been provided. The five cent tax to be collected after July 11 will go to the following funds: Four cents, to the state school equalizing fund. One half cent, to retire $1,000,000 bond issue (not yet floated) to provide buildings and repairs for the four districts: agricultural, schools, the two teachers colleges, and three junior colleges. One half cent, for the University of Arkansas and Arkansas Medical School Building funds. This half cent will retire a proposed bond issue of $1,000,000. The recent legislature authorized the additional tax of a cent. The emergency clause was adopted to the bill providing for the agricultural-teacher colleges building fund, and collection started within a few days of the bill's approval by Governor Parnell. The emergency clause on the University-medical school bill failed of adoption, so that the collection of the last half cent tax could not start until the law went into effect—90 days after adjournment of the legislature. State Revenue Commissioner David A. Gates has started distribution of the new five cent tax stamps. He estimated the additional cent tax would yield about $200,000 a year, based upon collections during the past two months of the half-cent tax. This has yielded between $8,000 and $9,000 the past two months. Legislative sponsors of both measures estimated a return from $225,000 to $250,000 a year, which would retire the bonds in from 12 to 15 years. Act No. 10 of 1931 provided a $1,000,000 bond issue, the proceeds to be distributed as follows: $150,000 to the State Teachers College, Conway; $140,000 each to the Henderson State Teachers College, Arkadelphia; Arkansas Polytechnic College, Russellville; Jonesboro A. & M.; Monticello A. & M.; and Magnolia A. & M.; and $50,000 each to the junior colleges at Beebe, Clinton and Mena. Act No. 18 provided a $1,000,000 bond issue, of which $725,000 would go to the University of Arkansas for a science building, library and repairs to the dining hall; and $275,000 to provide the first buildings the Arkansas Medical School at Little Rock has ever received from the state.

New Building For Hendrix Planned

Trustees Hope to Erect Structure for Women to Cost $100,000

CONWAY.—Steps toward the erection during the next year of a woman's building on the Hendrix College campus, to cost $100,000 to $125,000, were taken at a meeting of trustees of the Trinity system at Hendrix Thursday. The Finance Committee was directed to provide funds and if they are raised, the Building Committee was authorized to begin construction. Dr. J. H. Reynolds, president, said he hoped to be able to start work by next fall. A large part of the $250,000 gift of the General Education Board to Hendrix for building has not been claimed. In erection of the new building $15,000 may be drawn from the board for each $25,000 raised elsewhere. Thus the college would have to raise only about $55,000 to secure a $100,000 building fund. The need of additional accommodations for young women students is great Dr. Reynolds said, and will be come more acute with the discontinuance of the last two years of college work at Galloway Woman's College.

Dumas recorded the highest temperature, a maximum of 95. Osceola and Portland were next with maximums of 94 each. The temperature here at noon Friday was 86.

Tompkins and Son Are Arraigned for Jake's Cafe Fire

Two Waive Preliminary Hearing and Are Held for Circuit Court

CHARGE IS DENIED

Defense Attorneys Carry Case to Grand Jury in J. P. Trial Saturday

Jake Tompkins and his son Robert, operators of Jake's Cafe on South Main street, which suffered a fire last early Friday morning, were arraigned Saturday on a charge of arson. The elder Tompkins was found guilty by city police, and the son at Lewisville, where Chief Claude Stuart, with Friday night, the second arrest, being obtained through LaFayette county deputy sheriffs. They were committed to jail early Saturday morning, but later were released for a conference with defense attorneys, Atkins & Stewart. The arson charge was preferred by the prosecuting attorney's office following a police and fire department investigation which was said to have disclosed evidence that the restaurant building was deliberately fired. Kerosene was reported on the floor of the building. The prompt appearance of the first department at 1 a. m. Friday prevented entire loss of the building, the damage being largely confined to the cafe kitchen, to the extent of about $1,000. Insurance was said to have been $17,000. Complete denial of the charges was made by Tompkins and his son, who are represented by Atkins & Stewart. They waived examination Saturday afternoon at a preliminary hearing before Justice S. F. Huntley and were bound over to the October term of the grand jury. The elder Tompkins' bond was fixed at $250, which he made; and the son's bond was placed at $500, which had not been made up to 3 o'clock Saturday. The state's case was handled by John Vesey, deputy prosecuting attorney. A crowd of 50 or 60 men gathered in the second floor office of Justice Huntley, which are just above the cafe that was damaged by fire Friday morning.

Camden Grocery Store Is Robbed

Holes Bored in Floor by Yeggs as Grocery Is Looted of $200

CAMDEN, Ark.—Blowing the bottom out of a safe, yeggs early Friday escaped with over $200 from the American Grocery company, local wholesale firm. Entrance was gained to the store room by boring holes in the floor. The safe was moved from the office into an adjoining room and turned over on a sack of salt to break the fall. The bottom was blown out. Only cash was taken, the yeggs piling all checks neatly beside the overturned safe. A savings bank, containing savings of one employee, was cracked open and all money removed. No goods were molested. Officers are at work on a few clues, one being footprints made under the flooring. Sheriff Arthur Ellis said professional yeggs did the job. There were at least two in the gang, according to footprints. They left by a rear door. A store owned by Will Ellis on South California street also was robbed when thieves broke a front show window. Men's clothing was taken. To complete a round of excitement, fire damaged the guest room of the Quachita hotel. Sleeping guests were awakened to find the room ablaze.

Dawes Home, Puffs Optimistically

First a wave of optimism, then the gradual return of a new era of prosperity for the nation were predicted, between puffs on his famous under-slung pipe, by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes. Shown here as he appeared upon landing in New York from England, the Ambassador planned to spend his leave of absence in visiting friends, paying respects to Washington officials, and catching up with his duties as chairman of the finance committee of the world's fair to be held in Chicago.

Women Honor Men Heroes of Titanic

With President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover among the guests of honor this memorial, "erected by the women of America," was unveiled in Washington. In honor of the hundreds of men who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster of 1912 "that women and children might be saved." The statue is the work of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and represents the contributions of some 20,000 women in the U. S. The memorial was authorized in 1917, but was held up until the desired site in Potomac Parkway could be obtained.

Takes Own Medicine

LONDON—(AP)—The House of Commons is getting a dose of its own talk about economy. Free matches have been abolished by the house restaurant but the empty holders remain as a reminder of more prosperous days.

Ship From Which 500 Were Rescued

This abandoned ship, the S. S. Harvard, might have been the watery tomb of 500 Memorial Day excursionists if it had not been for a prompt rescue effected in a foggy sea near Santa Barbara, California, by crews of government mine sweepers. Note the rope ladders by which the passengers descended when the ship went on the rocks. It was near this point that seven navy destroyers piled up on the rocks in 1923 with a loss of 22 lives.

Signaling Victory

The checked flag in the hand of the judge dropper as this photo was snapped, and Louis Schneider of Indianapolis was the victor in the 500-mile auto classic at the Indianapolis Speedway. 150,000 fans watched him grind to victory.

TEXACO NATIONAL ROAD REPORTS 1931

The Entire State Awaited the Results

VIOLENT storms disorganized the communications of a middlewest state on the night of the most bitterly contested Senatorial election in its history. The vote was unusually close and only a tabulation of every precinct's ballots could accurately determine the outcome. Facing terrific obstacles, with telephone and telegraph lines out of order, roads impassable and rain drenching the entire state, THE ASSOCIATED PRESS election returns staff worked throughout the night and the following day. Twenty hours after the polls closed, the last precinct had been reported. But the plurality for the incumbent Senator was so small that even a slight error in one of the 2,000 precincts might have altered the result. An immediate recount was necessary!

Through another night, the same staff kept at work. Tired election officials were routed from their beds to assist in checking reports. Early the next morning, the task was completed and the first totals verified. A few weeks later the official canvass confirmed the result.

THROUGH such painstaking and tireless efforts, THE ASSOCIATED PRESS serves the readers of member newspapers with reliable and unbiased reports of the day's news.

MELODY GIRL

DEWEY GROVES

Now the bully "Pol" had been one of her classmates in the fifth grade at school. Then Polney had given up education for what to him were pleasanter pursuits. Now even some of the town's police officers were known to avoid him.

Tommy had been in trouble with the Larkin boys. That could easily be fatal, but this once it hadn't been. The doctor had told her. She wished she'd questioned him more, but it wasn't easy to talk about Tommy.

Why had the doctor seen Tommy? She should have asked him that. It could only mean that Tommy had been injured.

In a store in the village she tried to telephone to Mr. Hoffman but was told he had gone to the city. She hadn't expected to learn anything from him anyway. It was plain that Tommy wasn't confiding in his uncle. The thing to do was to go to the Larkin house as she'd intended and find out what she could from Pol if he were at home.

She hadn't dared to take her noisy old car, so now she got a taxi and asked the driver if he knew where the Larkins lived. He looked at her in astonishment and avowed he'd tell the world he did.

At the house she asked if he'd inquire for Polney Larkin. In the hope of having Pol come outside to talk with her. The driver was pleasant about it, but whoever it was that came to the door and called back inside to inform the powerful Pol that a dame wanted to see him, send word to Beryl that she could come inside.

"Shall I wait?" the driver asked, holding the car door open for her.

"Please," she breathed, for the house had a dark and forbidding aspect that equaled the reputation of its owners. Perhaps its power to terrify the timid was one reason why they did not paint it. Beryl was not timid, and so she entered and spoke calmly to the big, brutish Pol when he approached her.

"Can you tell me where I may find Tommy?" she asked.

Pol grinned at her. Pol liked to grin. He had exceptionally fine teeth. Corn had done it, he claimed. He liked to ask questions, too.

"What right you got to ask?" he returned bluntly.

Beryl eyed him haughtily. "According to your standards I probably have none," she answered coolly.

"I haven't come here to be diplomatic," Beryl informed him. "I want to know where Tommy will be."

Pol turned away, then back again, knowing it was foolish to allow his lack of courtesy to defeat her. "I am not Tommy's girl," she said evenly. "I am a friend. And I know he was in a row with you. If you don't tell me what you did with him I shall go to the police."

Pol laughed. "You're hot stuff, sister," he told her, "but I like your spirit even if you are miles off in your reckonin'." The police—that's a hot one!

HE was still laughing when a sound behind Beryl caused her to turn hastily in that direction. And there in a doorway leading into an inner room stood Tommy. He was haggard and entirely disreputable looking but he showed a natural surprise at seeing Beryl.

"What you doin' here?" he asked, and his voice was as cracked as his skin.

"If you'll take me out to my taxi I'll tell you," Beryl answered.

Tommy glanced at Pol who was staring at him with a crooked smile.

"All right," Tommy said uneasily, and followed her from the room.

"What were you doing in that house?" she demanded of him when they were outside. "You were in a fight with those men, weren't you?"

Tommy essayed a laugh but it was only a travesty of a sound. "Sure," he said, "and they walloped me good and plenty. But I had it comin'." I tried to get smart with a better man.

"But I don't understand," Beryl said, "why you are here, in their house."

"They're all right," Tommy said in defense of his new friends.

"I see," Beryl remarked scathingly. "They beat that idea into your head."

"I'd rather take a beating than a preaching," Tommy warned her. Beryl instantly took a different tack. "I won't preach to you, Tommy," she told him softly. "Come on and let's talk it over on the way back home."

"I'm not going home," Tommy declared, and the determination in his voice was alarming.

Urged as she would, Beryl could not persuade Tommy to leave the Larkins.

"Please," she begged, after all arguments had proven vain, "keep in touch with me, Tommy."

But Tommy did not keep in touch with her, and for days Beryl lived in the agony of dread. She had been put to bed, almost forcibly, and scolded by the family doctor and her mother with such clearness and emphasis that she dared not disobey.

SHE sent for Mr. Hoffman and he came but said he "had washed his hands of the young pup." Beryl could get no encouragement from him. She prevailed upon her mother, on threat of going out to do it herself, to make inquiries concerning Tommy at various places, but this did her no good, either. For Mrs. Everett lied to her. She thought it best, for the truth about Tommy was not pleasant.

Beryl learned it quickly enough, however, when, after a fortnight, she was allowed to leave the house. Tommy had joined with the Larkin gang in earnest. Beryl heard that he had been engaged with them in certain midnight smuggling operations designed to aid in assuaging scotlaw thirst. But this was only rumor and she refused to believe it until she had talked with Tommy.

After this news Beryl was more heartless than ever. She knew that Tommy had got into something he couldn't get out of without more trouble than he at present had the courage to face. He did not tell her frankly, but she understood that his association with the Larkins had begun in a spirit of defiance, and that he was held to it by taunts.

Tommy said he wished she'd let him alone. What had he got out of life trying to please other people, anyhow?

Beryl attempted to bait him with news of Irene. It was the only way she could get to see him. She would drive to the Larkin dwelling, from all she could learn Tommy was living there and park opposite the front door for hours at a time.

There seemed to be some smaller members of the family, and occasionally they threw such things as overripe tomatoes and rotting apples at her. Beryl suspected they'd have thrown rocks if they dared and the thought that Tommy was affording her some protection made it possible for her to endure the ridicule of the Larkins.

Tommy never would come out except when she could get someone to carry in word that she had news from the west. He came reluctantly, for Beryl would plead with him a little before telling him anything about Irene.

But one time she tricked him, for she had something else to tell him.

Man Who Escaped From Pen 38 Years Ago Back

LINCOLN, Neb.—(P)—Thirty-eight years ago a young man went over the wall of the Nebraska state penitentiary to freedom.

Thursday, the same man, now a 66-year-old grandfather, was back inside the walls of the state prison, having voluntarily surrendered in order, he said, to keep a promise, "made to his maker."

Charles E. Johnson is the man. He walked approximately 90 miles from his former home in Oakland, Neb., to serve out seven months of a two-year term on a charge of robbery.

His return, after wandering for 38 years over the globe, was made, he said, to repay providence for snatching him from the sea as he clung to a rock off the coast of Japan three months ago following a shipwreck. He was rescued by a Japanese life saving crew.

French Academy Takes Action in First Time

PARIS.—(P)—For the first time in its history of 300 years the sedate French academy Thursday will welcome a movie actor to its bosom.

For Charles le Goffic, poet and remancer of Brittany life, not only is the author of a scenario based on the folklore of his native province, but took part in the interpretation of the film. Furthermore he did this after the "Forty Immortals," had elected him into their august body!

Mele Goffic, who is 68, and has a flowing beard, has had a long and varied literary career. His first work, "Breton Love," dates from 1889 and his "Morgane," which contains traces of the Arthurian legends, common to Brittany and early England, was published a generation ago.

The death toll of the mysterious tragedy that befell the motor sloop Sea Fox in Long Island Sound was increased to eight persons when it became virtually certain that Mrs. Lillian Greis Kemp, above, former Broadway musical comedy actress, was a member of the party of four men and four women. Friends of Mrs. Kemp said she had joined the ill-fated sailing party, and a coat found by searchers was identified as hers. The bodies of three other women have been recovered.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

The Team Nobody Knows

NAMED three of the Boston Braves. It's hard to do, unless you happen to be following the team nobody knows.

Not counted as a first division contender when viewed in training at St. Petersburg in the springtime, the Braves have amazed the statisticians by staying in the race during the first five weeks of the campaign, and by giving all sorts of trouble to the clubs that were expected to beat them easily.

Brandt Boils Over

LED by the amazing pitching of Eddie Brandt, who won six straight starts, the Boston boys have been chasing the Giants and Cardinals for the last couple of weeks with blood in their eyes, and it isn't over yet. Brandt, a pitcher who won only three games last year, won six in a row to start the 1931 season.

The other Braves' pitchers, down-trodden in other years and numbering a couple of castoffs in their ranks, have been helping the big southpaw keep the Braves up in the race. Harry Selbold, who broke even last year in 32 games pitched, has started as though he means to win 25 games this season.

A pair of castoffs, Tom Zachary, that ace of "nothing" pitchers, and Willie Sherdel, have materially aided in the spurt of the McKee's forces. Ben Cantwell, sent to Boston by McGraw several years ago in the deal for Joe Gower, has begun to fulfill the promise McGraw saw in him when he scouted Ben while the young man was pitching for Jacksonville, Fla.

Not Sluggers

THE Braves are not a great hitting team. They figure to bat about sixth in the league. If fielding they should run somewhere in the first division, behind the Giants and perhaps the Pirates and Cardinals.

But figures sometimes lie, as the Athletics have conclusively proved by scoring fewer runs, making fewer hits and batting last in the American League, but leading the league. The Braves right now happen to be leading third, and that is where the team stands as this is being written.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

THE hint that ball players on other clubs in the Texas League may be out to "get" Dizzy Dean, flannel-mouthed young pitcher sent to Houston by the Cardinals, is published by "Andy" in the Houston Press. . . . the 6-foot-4 Dizzy, catcher on Dizzy's jaw after Dizzy had buzzed a fast one close to his tonsils. Since going to Houston, Dizzy has been getting all kinds of praise for his splendid pitching, and Andy thinks the other boys may be getting a bit jealous. . . . Dizzy didn't have a chance to mix it with the Dallas catcher, according to Andy. . . . Todd's wallop floored him unexpectedly, Dizzy expecting the young man to argue vigorously but not to let one go. . . . Andy predicts that before the season ends, Dizzy will make Mr. Todd "like it" even if he didn't get a chance to retaliate after the knockdown.

Sheeley, the first baseman rescued from the minors, leads the Braves at bat with a percentage around .340. Next comes Worthington, a recruit from Rochester, batting around .330. Berger, the centerfielder, who came from the coast last year, has been hitting around .310. Catcher Cronin hits .300. The rest of the regulars, Maraville, Maguire, Dreesen, Wilson, Chatham, Klobb, Schumacher and Clark, have been under .300 this year.

Bill McKechnie told me at St. Petersburg in the spring that his team was "going up." It was a little hard to believe then. It is not so hard now.

Derby Winners Race Home With $1,000,000 for Americans

With flying hoofs pounding to the tune of $1,000,000 in sweepstakes winnings for American ticket holders, these English Derby winners are shown as they raced to victory down the homestretch at Epsom Downs. Nearly a million people, including King George and Queen Mary, saw Cameronian, the favorite, beat Orpen by three-quarters of a length with Sandwich just behind. This picture was taken by a cameraman for NEA Service and Hope Star at the track, rushed to London, transmitted by radio across the Atlantic to New York and sent thence over telephoto wires.
